“When working with students, I try to get them to look past graduation. I encourage them to think strategically with respect to their careers about where they want to go and how to get there. I stress that they should utilize their college years to discover what opportunities are available and to build a strong foundation.”

The College of Business continues to define my educational experience beyond anything else. Organizations such as Business Student Council, Toastmasters International and programs offered at the Center for Student Professional Development have opened many doors for me at UTSA. The caliber of faculty is top notch as well. The possibilities here are endless.
