Leadership Training Course (LTC)

There are scholars among you who aspire to achieve something even greater than a college degree. They aspire to be leaders. They are Army ROTC Cadets—and you can join them by attending the Leader's Training Course (LTC).

Leadership Training Course (LTC) is the two year entry point for ROTC. Students with 2 or 2.5 years remaining to graduate can qualify for an ROTC Scholarship by attending.

LTC is four weeks of intense classroom and field training held in the summer at Fort Knox, KY. This course is an accelerated version of the two years of leadership development training Cadets receive in the Basic Course. By transforming yourself through this rigorous training, you will qualify for enrollment in Advanced Army ROTC on campus—provided you have two to two and a half years of college remaining (undergraduate or graduate).

At LTC you experience your future as an Army officer firsthand. You will receive the kind of leadership development training that is unmatched by any other program. How? By developing your potential in the most important of ways—mentally, physically and emotionally. You will be grouped into squads where you will gain experience in all leadership roles—culminating in verbal and written feedback on your improvement. LTC cost you nothing……it is free and there is no obligation for attendance. You receive pay (over $700.00), transportation to and from Fort Knox, housing and meals. The four weeks and four phases of LTC can lead you to the ultimate goal: becoming an Army Officer.

The benefits of this leadership training will extend well beyond your college years into any career you choose. You can even qualify for a two to two and a half year scholarship that will take care of your college tuition and many other expenses.
