

Department Scholarship Application

SAN ANTONIO GEOPHYSICAL SOCIETY RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP

The San Antonio Geophysical Society Research Scholarship is accepting applications for students actively pursuing a degree in the Department of Geological Sciences and working in the area of geophysics or geology.

Preference will be given to graduate students conducting geophysical research. In the absence of a sufficient number of graduate applicants engaged in geophysical research, the remaining funds will be awarded to graduate students conducting field work for geological research. Undergraduate students are eligible, if they are engaged in field research.

This scholarship must be used for expenses related to research, or travel/registration/supply expenses to participate in relevant geoscience research conferences. Funds will not be used support a field course.

The applicant must submit a one-page essay describing their research, as well as a detailed budget outlining expenditures. If funds are to be used to attend a research conference, the essay should include a description of how their participation at the conference is relevant to their educational development as a geoscientists.

This scholarship is awarded as determined by the department scholarship committee.
