For Instructors

In addition to opportunities for internships and field experience, the ITC is ideal for bolstering students’ research skills. Collaboration can take a variety of forms, from visiting the museum for a self-guided tour to working directly with museum staff and educators. At the ITC, students will add new depth to their work while gaining behind-the-scenes experience and insights from this cultural institution.

- Enhance primary source research by using objects and artifacts
- Explore new outlets for practical research application (e.g., student-designed exhibitions)
- Experiential learning with supportive professionals to uphold UTSA’s Classroom to Career initiative

ITC resources can support curricula in

- Anthropology
- American Studies
- Art & Art History
- Communication
- Education
- History
- Mexican American Studies
- Museum Studies
- Sociology

If you don't see your field on this list, reach out to us. We're always happy to be interdisciplinary!
VOLUNTEER
As an ITC Volunteer, you can support museum operations as a research or office assistant, greet our visitors, or lead tours for visiting schools. Not looking for a long-term commitment? Drop in for the annual Texas Folklife Festival or as a part of a service day!

INTERN
The ITC offers internships in departments including Collections Management, Communications and Marketing, Museum Research, and Education and Tours. Internships are open to undergraduate and graduate students in the fall, spring, and summer semesters, and most offer 3 hours of course credit.

RESEARCH
Our collections hold objects representing the Texas histories of individuals from all around the world. You could find a breakthrough for your research, or just enrich your perspective. Come see what the galleries offer, and ask our staff what else we might have in store.

For Students
Are you looking for a volunteer position, an internship, or just something to give your research project an extra edge? Head to the ITC!

UTSA faculty, students and staff always enjoy free regular admission to the Institute of Texan Cultures. For information on opening receptions, guest speakers, and other special events, visit TexanCultures.com/featured-events/
