

Advisors Creed

- May I always encourage open, honest communications.
- May I offer alternatives, but have the strength to let the group make the final decision.
- May I always remember that I am no longer a collegian and that this group is theirs.
- May I have the wisdom to know when to sit on my hands and bite my tongue.
- May I always deal with love, compassion and empathy.
- May I truly listen completely and hear at the same time.
- May I always be aware of the tone of voice that I use.
- May I always remain approachable and keep from becoming judgmental too soon.
- May I attempt to verify before I answer a question never really asked.
- May my pride for the group be so enthusiastic that it becomes infectious.
- May I constantly strive to be the best role model possible.
- May I always communicate with other advisors regularly and realize that the team is stronger than each of the individuals alone.
- May I constantly remember the benefits of positive praise and positive reinforcement.
- May my actions always match my words.
- May I realize that I have a golden opportunity to inspire and motivate and cherish the gifts I can give.
