Tests that Grade Themselves

Did you know you can create a test using Google Forms? If you have a Gmail account you have access to Google Forms through Google Drive. Google drive is a cloud based storage system that also allows you to create Word documents, Spreadsheets, slide presentations, and forms and store them in one easy place.

Using the forms tool, you can create a variety of tests and surveys. You can send students a link to a test or survey and all of the responses will populate into a spreadsheet for easy viewing. There are a multitude of YouTube videos that show you how to create a form or test. However, to have the test grade itself requires a special add-on app called Flubaroo. This add-on will take the answers from your multiple-choice test, grade them for you and then provide a detailed analysis of students’ grades for you.

You can find a detailed tutorial on using Flubaroo with Google Forms to grade a test here. If you need to learn more about Google Forms, you can view a tutorial here.

Want to learn more about creating exams, quizzes and surveys?
Contact us for a one-on-one consultation!

Dr. Shelley Howell
Teaching and Learning Consultant
shelley.howell@utsa.edu
210-458-6778