Graham Weston became involved with Rackspace Hosting in late 1998, when he decided to invest in the start-up company and assist with corporate strategy, marketing and business development. As CEO, Weston focused his time and energy on setting the direction for Rackspace as it carved out a leadership position in the Hosting and Cloud Computing market.

Today, as Rackspace’s Chairman, Weston participates in creating the strategy and vision for the company, and continues to help foster a winning workplace culture for its employees, also known as Rackers.

Weston is also active in real estate and, as CEO of Weston Properties, owns 700,000 square feet of industrial and office properties in Texas, including the Weston Centre in San Antonio’s business district. In 1989 Graham Weston founded Assessment Technologies, an ad valorem tax consulting firm.

Weston is an alumnus of Texas A&M University.
