Affects of Marijuana

- Changes the way the brain works.
- Heavy use can have adverse affects on learning and social behavior.
- Can cause long term memory loss.
- Can cause users to become paranoid.
- Increases heart rate.
- Can cause more damage to the hearts and lungs than tobacco.
- Makes the eyes red and can blur ones vision.
- Marijuana is addictive.

Those are just a few of the side affects of using marijuana on your health and brain development. As a college student do you want to risk doing anything that could have an adverse affect on your learning?

Legal Consequences
