

As of October 2019, APA has updated to version 7. Some professors may still require APA 6, but be sure you're using the right version for your paper. This page covers APA 7.

• The Rundown •

Generally, an APA 7 style paper should have the following sections:

- Title page (cover page)
- The actual paper
- References

The paper title and the "References" title should be centered and in bold.

For the font, line spacing, and margins, follow these guidelines:

- Use a 12pt, legible font such as Times New Roman.
- Everything, including the title page and references, should be double-spaced.
- Each page, including the title page, should have a page number (no last name) in the top-right corner and one-inch margins.

● Formatting ●

In the top half of your title page, type the following, centered and double-spaced:

- The full name of your paper in bold
- Your first and last name
- Your affiliated university
- The course number and name
- Your instructor's name
- The assignment's due date

Note that APA 7 has different requirements for student and professional papers. This formatting is the APA 7 standard for student papers.

Student papers only include a running head if the professor requires it.
