How is globalization related to modern Chinese history and Chinese identities? How is American culture different from Chinese culture? How are these related to marketing in China? Based on his academic research, Dr. Zhang will discuss a brief history of globalization, the psychological, especially, the identity consequences of globalization, and cultural differences between the U.S. and China and some marketing implications.