The Council of 100 is a group of vaccinology experts, chosen by the Publisher and Editor-in-Chief of VACCINE, that serves as a resource for the journal's editorial board. Duties performed by Council of 100 members include: performing rapid reviews of articles; suggesting articles covering new developments in the field; contributing articles and reviews of current topics; and serving as ambassadors for the journal. We thank each member for being an invaluable resource for the journal!

Duties performed by Council of 100 members include: performing rapid reviews of articles; suggesting articles covering new developments in the field; contributing articles and reviews of current topics; and serving as ambassadors for the journal. We thank each member for being an invaluable resource for the journal!